WHITLOWS.

Dr. Guinier, Professor of the Faculty of Medicine, at Montpelier, has just published a letter in the Abeille Medicale, in which he describes a peculiar method of stopping the progress of a whitlow in its first stage. A whitiow generally begins with a dull sensation of heat in the affected finger, near the nail; a rese-colored spot marks the seat of discase. This roint when pressed, is painful; the color disappears and immediately returns after the pressure has ceased. After the lapse of a few hours the pain becomes more permanent, the color darker, and extends over a large r space while the skin is swollen. The pain increases rapidly, but as yet there is no pulsation. This, Dr. Guinier says, is the proper time for applying the remedy. Having slightly wetted the inflamed surface, he passes over the whole of it slowly with a pencil of lunar caustic, for at least a minute, in order to make sure that the influence of the the office of Sheriff for this County, at the comcaustic has penetrated through the cuticle. - ing election, by [dec 5] MANY VOTERS. The nitrate of silver is allowed to dry on the finger. When the skin has become quite black, the cure is complete. The patient office of Sheriff, at the ensuing May election, feels no pain, not even an itching sensation, and most respectfully solicit your support. during the operation, and a short time afterwards the pain of the whitlow disappears, the black skin peels off after a few days, and no trace is left of the disorder. If the operation be performed after the pain has become julsative, the latter increases after the cauterization, but the throbs cease in the course of a few hours and the cure is affected with equal certainty. Dr. Guinier is not sure that his remedy would produce its effect after the commencement of suppuration; at all events, the cure requires more time. He ascribes the successful result obtained from nitrate of missioner of the Revenue, at the election in May silver not to its having destroyed the diseased part. (the inflammation is too deeply seated, and the caute rization too superficial for that,) but to a revulsion or shock given to the part,

Vingt-Un .- We have a friend-or, with the emphasis of the inimitable Toodles, "we have a friend"--whom, for the nonce, we shall call the Major, though his right to the prefix I be elected, to faithfully perform the duties of the somewhat questionable. Now the Major the office. [feb 9-tE] EDW. B POWELL. has had through his life one besetting sin, and that is an unconquerable love of a certain game of cards known as Vingt Un, which is the French for twenty-ne. This well known game, a fat wite, and a large family, are about the only weaknesses that can be laid to the Major's charge. How often he has been married the record sayeth not-nor is it important. Suffice it, that during over thirty odd years of the Major's wedded life, as his wealth increased and his hairs became gray, one after another in regular succession, his board was honored with the presence of miniature editions of himself, until the number had reached twenty, when the Major concluded things had gone far enough, and should be stopped. But they didn't, as the Major in due time found out, for he had calculated without consulting his wife. There were indications of another bond of union and well-spring of happiness. The Major became nervous, for his nomen-clature was exhausted. In his desperation he finally declared the coming heir to his name and fortunes, whether boy or girl, should be named Vingt Un In vain the old woman remonstrated, but the Major was inexerable. The new comer, being the twenty first, should wag bis way through life with that appropriate title. In an ante-room the Major awaited the announcement of the little stranger's sex. Finally the nurse appeared, and, to the Major's horror, she whispered the terrible word-"Twins!" "Busted, by thunder!" yelled the Major, "why didn't I stand

SMART BOY.

The Yankee Blade tells the following anecdote of a college chum:

A member of one of the classes was distitguished not less for dry wit and sly waggery date for Superintendent of Police, at the ensuthan for his address in evading the writing of themes, and palming off the brain-coined currency of others as his legitimate "tender." One Monday morning he read a theme of unusual merit; but Prof. A- "smelt a rat," and as il. finished and sat down in the pride of conscious excellence, asked:

"I. that original, H---?" "Yes, sir."

"Are you sure of it?" queried the Professor, doubtingly.

"Why, yes, sir," replied H ---, with the imperturbable gravity and that pasteboard countenance he always wore, "it had "originai" over it in the paper I took it from."

An old man remarkable for his integrity, were the same bat so long that it became a proverb with his neighbors. At last one day he was seen with a new hat on. The next morning all the fences in the neighborhood bore the inscription; "John Green has got a new has?" A compassionate friend went to the old man and informed him of the ridicule, and offered to have the inscription erased, ere he would make his appearance in the street again.
